MISS PERCY IN CHARGE
Former Rockland Nurse, New Superintendent of Waldo County Hospital.

Barber newspapers have been publishing portraits, and very poor ones of Miss Adelaide H. Percy, a former Rockland nurse, who is now superintendent of the Waldo County General Hospital. With the picture was this brief sketch:

Miss Percy is a graduate of St. Barnabas' hospital in Woodford, Va. She is a Maine girl, having been born in Richmond, but her people now live in Bath. She was educated at Notre Dame academy in Putnam, Conn., then took up the study of nursing, being graduated from the above hospital in 1914. After that she did nursing for about six months in and about Portland, then went to Rockland and vicinity. Last summer she was in Bangor, going from there to Texas for two months with a patient. A year ago last winter she was in Boston, where she was married to Dr. George Shattuck, wife of Dr. George Shattuck, for three months, after having been with the family at their country estate in Dark Harbor, Islesboro, during the summer season. Miss Percy is an attractive girl, and has been very successful in her profession. She succeeds Miss Marion Hamblin of Augusta, who resigned to go to France with the Harvard Unit.

The Rockland Gazette was established in 1846. In 1874 the Courier was established, and consolidated with the Gazette in 1882. The Free Press was established in 1885, and in 1891 changed its name to the Tribune. These papers consolidated March 17, 1897.

Political Short Notes
Charles D. Hiles, chairman of the Republican National committee, in a statement issued last week pointed to the results of recent elections as indicative of a gradual growth of Republican sentiment throughout the country. "From Sept. 8, 1914, when John Peters, Republican, was sent to Congress in a bye-election in the third district of Maine, reclaiming that district from the Democrats," said Mr. Hiles, "every special and general election has resulted in marked steady mounting Republican advances."

The Progressive party will not insist upon the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for President of the United States if the Republicans will name a candidate at Chicago "who stands for Progressive principle and is able to put them through," according to a statement made last Thursday night by George W. Perkins, following a meeting of the executive committee of the Progressive national committee. "We of course are for old Roosevelt," declared Mr. Perkins, "and suggest his name to the Republicans. If they reply that they will not agree on the Colonel, we shall ask them to name us their man, who ought to be nearly unanimous a choice as our man is. We are willing to be reasonable for the sake of harmony."

A movement to secure the preferential Presidential vote of Pennsylvania in the Republican primaries on May 16 for Henry Ford was inaugurated last Thursday by the mailing throughout the state of a million stickers bearing his name with the request that they be pasted on the ballot as a protest against war. The stickers were mailed from the headquarters of the Patriotic League. Gov. Brumbaugh's name is the only one which will be printed on the ballot as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency, but there will be a blank space on which other names may be written or stickers pasted.

Hon. W. W. Thomas of Portland, former minister to Sweden, arrived in Washington Monday and will spend the summer in Portland. Mr. Thomas made an unexpected voyage home by the extreme Northern circuitous route. He unhesitatingly predicted an overwhelming Republican victory throughout the country in the fall elections.

Returns Tuesday night indicated that George M. Bowers, Republican, had defeated Samuel V. Woods, Democrat, for Congress by more than 800 votes at a West Virginia special election. Bowers was formerly United States commissioner of fisheries.

When Walterhouse cherishes the hope that from some appropriation he will ultimately be enabled to buy all of the paraphernalia required. Finding that "band uniforms are an expensive luxury he made a trip to Portland and bought white suits similar to those worn in the U. S. Navy, with white stockings and white shoes to match.

"We have named the organization the Honor Band of Thomaston," said Warden Waterhouse, "and the color of the uniforms is emblematic. The name was suggested by Director Avery after the band had been permitted to play on the veranda of the warden's residence until 10 o'clock one night, practically unattended. This privilege carries a greater significance when it is known that six of the bandmen are convicts who have been doomed to spend their life in the institution."

"I wouldn't hesitate," said the warden, "to call these men out at any hour of the night, even if there wasn't another officer around but myself, and I don't pack a gun." Not a man has been disciplined since the band was started, and the warden reports that the men are doing better work at their daily tasks.

"If you ever see any player running away," said one of the men, "don't shoot me, because I am going to run after that man, and bring him back."

Loyalty to the administration, is how Director Avery phrases it.

The Honor Band began its rehearsals Jan. 23, and today its repertoire contains some 25 selections, including "The Traviata," "Bohemian Girl," "Pact and Promise," and the majority of the B. B. Hall marches. Of course there are some ragtime numbers, and the most popular of all is a selection one would hardly expect a prison band to play. It is entitled "This is the Life."

The rehearsals and concerts all conclude with "Star-Spangled Banner," and at the close of each day the band marches with martial tread to the prison feast, and plays that selection as old Glory is run down for the night.

Evening rehearsals are held in the chapel. Sunday afternoons there are concerts in the yard, or, if the day be stormy, the band plays in the guard room where in former years pin-drop silence has seldom been broken. The band gave a concert Patriot's Day for the benefit of the Maine Postoffice Clerks, who were inspecting the prison, and was rewarded with a handsome collection to be used in the purchase of new music.

In addition to the recreation which the members of the band are deriving is the satisfaction of knowing that some day they may be able to turn their talent to advantage, the average wages of a union handsman being $21 a week. Even the "lifers" find it a relief from the unbroken monotony of their every-day life.

The membership and instrumentation of the Honor Band follows:
Harry Avery, leader, baritone; Rexford Gilman, Charles Friel, b flat clarinet; Emanuel Salvatore, John Semanchuk, Emory Ward, Peter Savigny, b flat cornets; Fred Peters and Lionel E. Dudley, solo cornets; Sylvester Whitley, double b flat bass; Frank McKay and Alexander McRae, baritone; Walter Lincoitt and Frank Albano, altos; Edward Grafton and Nicholas Mone, e flat bass; Michael Mulicorn and Walter Bachelder, slide trombones; Robert Ellis, bass drum; Eddie Goodwin, snare drum.

MARTIN MYRICK
The many friends of Martin N. Myrick were pained to learn of his death, which occurred April 25, at his home in Sullivan, after a long illness. Mr. Myrick was born in Vinthoven, Dec. 30, 1875, the son of the late Anthony and Penella (Merrill) Myrick, and lived in Sullivan since the close of the Civil War, when he married Miss Betsy T. Curtis, in 1895. Mr. Myrick was a member of D. L. Vener Post, G. A. R. He served three years in Co. I, 19th Maine Regiment, and was wounded through the left leg during the battle of the Wilderness. A brave soldier, gladly offering his life for his flag, he lived loyally through carnage, a man of the highest type, devoted husband and father, a loyal friend, ever a kindly neighbor, his was a life which was lived nobly, and his a memory never forgotten.

He leaves to mourn his loss three sons, Ezra of Chicken Mill, Owen C. and Eugene C. L. and one daughter, Mrs. Allura Bickford, all of Sullivan; two brothers, Irvin S. and Harry; and John of Sullivan. Six grandchildren, Elliott and Glenn Myrick of Chicken Mill, Mrs. Carrie Colwell, Rely, Edie and D. Martin Myrick, also of Sullivan. The funeral services were held April 28, at the home of the bereaved, Mrs. Raymond Bickford, Rev. Ray Dabell of Prospect Harbor officiating. Mrs. H. W. Hooper, Mrs. E. D. Bunker, Mrs. F. F. Pike and A. T. Sargent sang two selections. The bearers were C. F. Jacobs, H. W. Hooper, E. D. Bunker and G. S. Hanna. Interment in Hillside cemetery.

"This Is the Life"

One of the Selections Played by "Honor Band of Thomaston" Doesn't Savor of Prison Surroundings.

When Hon. Oakley C. Curtis, governor of Maine, came down to the State Prison last Thursday to confer with the newly appointed commission concerning the enlargement and alteration of that penitentiary, he was much astonished to learn that the convicts had formed a brass band, which was doing highly creditable stunts with classical music.

Four months ago the sound of music was an unknown quantity behind the prison walls. A chance visit to the Concord, N. H., reformatory, which had a fine band, led Warden Waterhouse to believe that such a project could be successfully undertaken in the Maine prison. His idea was cordially endorsed by Deputy Warden Archie D. Bucklin, himself a former handsman, and together they made a canvass of the convicts.

The situation wasn't very promising at the start, for there were less than half a dozen among the 230 prisoners who had ever played in a band or knew a note of music.

The officials had the good fortune, however, to find an experienced leader, Harry Avery, who was formerly with the naval band on the flagship Hartford, and who has played with bands in Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and other cities. His early musical education was obtained at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, while the family was residing in Everett, Mass.

When the candidates for the band had been selected they were given their preliminary instruction, a blackboard talk in the chapel, during which they learned the difference between notes and other fundamentals in the science of music. One of the students was an Italian, who knew scarcely a word of English. Director Avery had a smattering of Italian, and by combining their knowledge the Italian convicts soon came to read music readily.

Some of the instruments were bought by the convicts themselves, some were bought by the State, and others were loaned from R. G. Harbarn of Rockland and bought white suits similar to those worn in the U. S. Navy, with white stockings and white shoes to match.

"We have named the organization the Honor Band of Thomaston," said Warden Waterhouse, "and the color of the uniforms is emblematic. The name was suggested by Director Avery after the band had been permitted to play on the veranda of the warden's residence until 10 o'clock one night, practically unattended. This privilege carries a greater significance when it is known that six of the bandmen are convicts who have been doomed to spend their life in the institution."

"I wouldn't hesitate," said the warden, "to call these men out at any hour of the night, even if there wasn't another officer around but myself, and I don't pack a gun." Not a man has been disciplined since the band was started, and the warden reports that the men are doing better work at their daily tasks.

"If you ever see any player running away," said one of the men, "don't shoot me, because I am going to run after that man, and bring him back."

Out of the Silence
And what can you say when the day is done
When the shadows come and the light has gone
Over the rim of the golden west,
And a silver beam of the moon creeps in
As if in an answer to a question?
What do you say?
When a shadow comes and you seem to know
That the shadows speak soft and low,
"Well, what did you do today?"
Oh, what can you say when you're all alone
With the Master of all the tasks?
How much of a sin do you have to own
When the shadows come and the Master asks
How many things have you left undone
Ever studied and never makes?
What do you say?
When out of the shadows of the silent night
The Master speaks with the Master's right:
"Well, what did you do today?"
Three blest is he of the humble way
Who sinks to his bed of rest
The next he is wakened with a falling day
And the shadows come and the Master asks
How much of a sin do you have to own
When the shadows come and the Master asks
How many things have you left undone
Ever studied and never makes?
What do you say?
When out of the shadows of the silent night
The Master speaks with the Master's right:

HARTT ON A BICYCLE
Well-Known Writer Discourses Upon the Pleasures of Cycling.
In a two-column article in Tuesday's Boston Transcript, Rollin Lynde Hartt discourses delightfully of the resurrected joys of bicycling. He writes from Rockland:
"If you glance at a map of this coast of Maine, and see an enthusiast telling along it for pleasure on a bicycle, it is at least fifty thousand to one that I have the honor of being that exceedingly rare, rare bird. In these days practically no one rides a wheel for fun, though something like eight years ago there appeared in the Transcript, a plausible enough article predicting the revival of cycling as a sport. The revival is not yet—unless I may claim to comprise it myself—but the sport may be had for the asking (and a wholesome investment of perspiration) just as of yore. Indeed, it becomes a highly interesting experiment to turn wheelman again after fifteen years of respectability, and observe what changes have occurred meanwhile."

Touche upon the subject of recent road improvements in Maine the writer says: "Here and there—between Rockland and Rockport, notably—will see stretches of road unsurpassed and unsurpassable the world over." Alluding to at least one advantage that the bicycle enjoys over the automobile, Mr. Hartt refers to Warren-ton and adds:
"A duke—or to be more precise a half-duk—might take pride in an estate considerably smaller and less lovely than Warren-ton. Until the automobile superseded the horse, the drive through Warren-ton was the dearest treat that these shores of Penobscot Bay afforded. But there are limits to hospitality—as is only right and proper. Though horse-drawn carriages had been welcome, automobiles were not. So the cyclist alone now takes his way through that magnificent private park, where, with the scent of pines and seaweed in his nostrils and the muffling of salt water and seagulls in his ears, he has glimpses of white sails and far-off wooded islands and rocky shores and an occasional lighthouse and the glorious Camden falls, part emerald, part sapphire or amethyst, and bathed in golden sunshine."

And in conclusion of his very interesting essay the writer says: "Finally, our wheelman gains a wealth of physical exhilaration the automobilist misses outright. Try and see. The fun has not departed merely because people have left off seeking it. It is there still, with its slow undiminished and its fine rugged wholesomeness unspoiled and the spirit of it ready, any summer's day, to strip fifteen years from your age."

ANOTHER SARDINE DEVICE
Lubec Hears That a Machine is Being Invented Which Would Displace Much Female Help.
"If this plans now being perfected by an inventor connected with the American Can Company of New York, work out successfully, the entire business of packing sardines may be revolutionized," says a Lubec despatch.
The inventor, who is now working on a machine for cutting and eviscerating herring preparatory to packing them, is said to have stated to several of the representative packers that he has already practically perfected and ready for use, a machine that will replace the hundreds of female operatives in that it will automatically put the cooked fish in the cans as neatly as it can be done by the human hand.
"While this report has not been intended for the public it is causing considerable speculation here just as did the sewing machines that, some 15 years ago threw out 90 per cent of the male labor. This machine was derided at its first appearance and was thought impossible, but subsequent events proved it to be entirely practical, and today none of the two million or so cases of sardines packed in Maine is sealed by hand."

"It is, therefore, of considerable moment to the female help of Lubec that the packing machine will finally force them out of a very lucrative employment, following their husbands and brothers who were turned adrift in past years and obliged to seek other fields of labor. A prominent man in the fish business states that it is his opinion that such a machine would have to be extremely complicated, but that he believes it a possibility of the near future."

THE PONY CONTEST

So far the names of 19 bright boys and girls have been entered in the pony contest at The Courier-Gazette office. When the list is complete we will print it in full.

Some of these names are of very young children and have been entered by their parents. It is not necessary for a child to make a personal visit to the office for the purpose of registering his or her name. A parent or a friend can do it, either in person, or by telephone, or by mail.

The youngest name so far recorded is of a four-year-old, but that is no limit if a parent wishes to have a younger child try for the prize. A pony outfit appeals to the imagination of the young and is a prize worth striving for.

A more rigid enforcement of the city's traffic regulations is urged by a number of automobilists, who have contented themselves with obeying the rules, only to see them continually broken by other motorists and by many team-owners. A great many accidents will be averted this summer if the police insist upon teams and cars being kept on their own side of the street and obeying such other rules as make for safety.

The Y. M. C. A. board of managers yesterday voted to cooperate in the suggestion advanced for the improvement of the Association's lot at corner of Limerock and Union streets and Willis I. Ayer was appointed to act in the matter with members of a committee representing the city, the county and the Public Library. The board also voted the use of the lot for Chau-tauqua Week.

The Rockland City Club held a banquet at the Thorndike Hotel Friday evening, with local clergymen as guests. E. M. Lawrence delivered an informal address, devoted largely to civic matters. Remarks by Revs. Pliny A. Allen, J. H. Gray, J. Edward Newton, Howard A. Welch and R. J. Mooney followed. Only one member of the city club was absent.

The Maine Press Association is to have a mid-year session in Bangor this week, in connection with the annual Newspaper Institute held by the University of Maine. The thing for the newspaper and printing fraternity of the State.

The Rockland Merchants Association is making efforts in many directions to do the city such real good that it deserves cooperation of every business and professional man.

The Lindsey Grove Fire

Fine Residence of Charles A. Rose Virtually Ruined.
—Some Criticism and Comment.

Violent ringing of the Methodist church bell, about 2:30 Sunday afternoon, acquainted people with the fact that something was wrong. The various fire companies assembled in front of the city building, where they got the word that Lindsey Grove was afire. Thither the crowd wended its way, gaining new accessions from every highway and byway.

When the department arrived on the scene the fire had worked its way across the Coburn grove, and the roof of Charles A. Rose's residence on upper Beech street was ablaze.

For the benefit of the many who do not understand the geographical situation it should be stated that what is commonly known as Lindsey Grove, is in reality under three distinct ownerships. The grove begins on the north side of Limerock street west of Shaw avenue, and at that point is owned by the estate of the late John Coburn.

Adjoining it on the north is another section of the grove, which was bought from the late David Winslow by Walker & Rose, at the time when a real estate boom in that section was promised. On the bluff near the lower end of the grove Charles A. Rose erected the handsome structure which was attacked by Sunday's fire. Lindsey Grove, proper, is the section to the northward of this property.

Extending eastward from each section of this grove there were originally three tracts heavily covered with alder-bushes, trees and other growth. These tracts were cleared many years ago, and that fact undoubtedly saved, Sunday, one of the worst conflagrations the city has ever known.

The roof of the Rose residence was ablaze in many places when the department arrived. The family was absent, but friends immediately volunteered their services, with the result that most of the furniture was removed to a place of safety before the streams of water directed upon the roof began to deluge everything beneath it.

The splendid force of the water was much commended. Supt. J. W. Crocker of the Camden & Rockland Water Co., states that the hydrant which furnished this service is looked directly onto a line from Mirror Lake, and before entering the water has a drop of 367 feet.

The roof of the residence is practically ruined, and the water did such damage to the floors and walls that the total loss on the building is estimated at about $500. The house was insured in M. S. Bird & Co.'s agency. The furniture loss, which will not be extensive, is insured in the A. L. Orne and H. O. Gurdy agencies.

Criticism is very general over the delay which ensued before the fire department arrived on the scene, and the continued inadequacy of the present fire alarm service. The Methodist bell has not been on its good behavior for some days, and a protest against this condition of affairs was voiced in the Merchants' Association meeting last Friday night by former Alderman J. N. Southern. If the alarm is no good let's try something else; it is lack of proper care and maintenance let's put somebody onto the job who knows what he is doing. An insurance agent remarked yesterday that the Insurance Exchange would probably jump the Rockland rates if the matter is not remedied.

Nobody feels worse about this fire than Chief Engineer Flint, who says there would have been no serious loss if he had been notified in the first place. "The trouble with the fire alarm," says Mr. Flint, "has been that the striker of the Methodist bell. It was found that a bolt was missing from the hammer rod, and that one of the set screws was loose. These have been remedied, and we believe this will be no further trouble. If there is we shall have an expert electrician come on from Boston to give the system an overhauling."

Miss Nettie Brit of 181 Limerock street, was one of the first to notice the fire, which had its origin but a short distance at the rear of the house. To The Courier-Gazette reporter she thus described her efforts to secure assistance:

"I tried first to notify Miss Kitty Coburn, who owns the property, but failing to get any response called 'Emergency—Fire Department,' as the telephone directory farther north. I do not know who answered the call, but it was a man, and he wanted to know if it was a grass fire.

"I said 'No, it's a fire in the grove, and I wish you would send help immediately.' About five minutes later my sister telephoned that the fire was spreading rapidly, but the news failed to bring any reply. Ten minutes later, as nearly as I can tell, we telephoned again, and a policeman came sauntering along Shaw avenue. I do not know where he went, or what he did. I was too busy fighting the fire. Shortly afterwards a hose wagon came up to the point opposite our house and went back again.

"This I do know, that if the fire department had come when I first asked for it, Rose house would not have been damaged."

Others who telephoned for assistance including A. Ross Weeks, Dr. J. H. Damon, Arthur Rogers and Arthur P. Haines.

Patrolman Fields, who was at the police station when some of these calls came in, says that he was misled as to the real importance of the fire. He talked with a man, who said, merely, that it was a brush fire and in response to Mr. Fields' question as to whether the fire department should be sent, was informed that it did not seem to be necessary. On his own hook Patrolman Fields had a hose wagon sent up, and warned the fire company that it had better hold itself in readiness for a call.

When the department did arrive it soon had the fire under control, much to the relief of those who had property in its pathway.

Numerous stories are in circulation to account for the origin of the fire. Whether it was started by children as a grass fire, or from a match which somebody dropped, the fact remains that it is criminal carelessness to be freely using matches in such places during a dry season. Furthermore it is a punishable offence.

Fire on James Street
The department was called to James street Friday afternoon where fire had caught and the chimney in the house owned by William H. Teddy of Portland, and occupied by Herman Seavey. The roof was burned, and the whole building badly damaged.

The Seavey family saved considerable furniture. Loss on house about $800, and on furniture about $100. Insured with M. S. Bird & Co.

OBSERVED MOTHERS' DAY
Fine Program at Methodist Church Heard By Large Audience.

Sunday evening, in the vestry of the Methodist church, a very large audience listened to an exceptionally appropriate program on Mothers' Day. The newly-elected officers of the Epworth League were installed with impressive ceremony. The entire program of music, reading and marches passed off in perfect order, reflecting much credit upon Mrs. Beatrice Stone, whose earnest efforts were well rewarded. It was the finest Mothers' Day program ever given in the city. It follows:

Orchestra, installation of officers, prayer, singing by congregation, No. 21; address of welcome, president of League; scripture lesson and remarks; "The Origin of Mothers' Day," Miss H. Trask; quartet; The object and observance of Mothers' Day, by Mrs. Warren; acrostic, ten children; tributes to mothers, Epworth League Cabinet; reading, "A Prayer," by Henry van Dyke; reading, Mrs. Nash; "The Old Home," Edna Teller; solo, Mrs. Armstrong; recitation, "The Master Has Come," Doris Plummer; recitation, "The White Flower," Madeline Rogers; recitation, "A Flower for Mothers' Day," Jack Garland; orchestra, congregation singing; recitation, "A Boy's Mother," Mrs. Littlehale; recitation, "Mothers' Day," Myron Young; recitation, "A Letter from Maine," Phandora Armstrong; duet, Mrs. Hutch and Mrs. Whitman; recitation and song, "Some Bible Mothers," seven girls; "The Old Time Hymns," reading by Mrs. Stone, and solo by Mrs. Armstrong; remarks by pastor; closing hymn, "Mother," congregation.

MOOSE TO HOLD CARNIVAL
Williams Standard Attractions To Show Here Week of May 22 to 27.

The L. C. O. Moose are to have another carnival this spring and a big time is looked forward to by all. In securing the Williams Standard Shows for their attractions they have showed remarkable good judgment. These shows have for the past week exhibited in Portland and the press of that city have been loud in praise. Miss MacEccleston, the little lady who in her daring performance thrilled so many Portland people will be found just as charming when she will be seen here. This is a new attraction and one of the marked features is the splendid effort the management have put forth in giving the public the best that money could buy. When seen here it will be needless to say that they have succeeded. There will be the usual dog and pony circus, together with the congress of freaks and wonders, also the Garden of Allah, direct from the New York Hippodrome and last but not least the Society Water Circus, with eight beautiful lady swimmers and divers, who will perform some almost impossible feats of the aquatic world. Then there is the $10,000 Merry Go Round, with three abreast jumping horses, which will more than delight the children. A big week of fun is looked forward to by all.—adv.

Leonard N. Sweets died Thursday at his home at Granite Island. Deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sweets and was born 33 years ago. His occupation was that of quarryman, of which union he was a member. Besides his parents he was survived by his wife Agnes and little daughter Martha, one sister, Mrs. Ellen Davis, and three brothers, Claude, Richard and Orin all of this town. Funeral services were held at his home Sunday at 2 o'clock. Rev. William Magwood officiating. Interment in Bay View cemetery.

The entire community was deeply saddened to learn of the sudden death of Elizabeth M. (Urquhart) wife of Melvin Cook Woods, which occurred early Friday morning at her home in Philadelphia, Pa., the body arriving here on Saturday's boat. Her death was caused from tonsillitis and she was ill but a few days. She was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Urquhart and her age was 36 years. Deceased was born in Scotland and came to this town with her parents when she was but five years old. Friends who grew from childhood with Mrs. Woods and all who came within the charm of her social relationship, find it very difficult to realize that the bond of life has been so quickly and rudely severed. For several years she was a member of Union church choir and was always ready to assist in the musical entertainments of this town, where she had a large number of friends and by whom she will be greatly missed. For 13 years she made her home in Augusta, where she had employment, and was a member of the Universalist church choir in Hallowell, where she made many friends. She was married but six months ago to Melvin C. Woods of that city. Besides her husband, she is survived by her parents, and one sister, Mrs. Edw. Condon of Stonington, who have the sympathy of friends in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Farnham are visiting at the home of Mrs. Farnham's mother, Mrs. Jane Dyer. Mr. Farnham is tuning pianos in town.

Mandamus Hearing Today

Herbert L. Grinnell, Candidate for Register of Deeds, Asks Right To Have His Name On Ballot.

At Augusta this afternoon there will be a hearing on the mandamus proceedings which were instituted by Herbert L. Grinnell of Union, Me. Grinnell is the Republican candidate for register of deeds of Knox county and he prays in the petition that a writ of mandamus may be issued by your honorable justice of said court against John E. Bunker, secretary of State commanding him to prepare and furnish in the several cities, towns and voting precincts in the County of Knox, primary ballots which shall give the voters of said county an opportunity to vote for a candidate for register of deeds of said county and a place thereon in the ballot to be used by the Republican voters of said county, in the name of said petitioner, a candidate for register of deeds, and that a rule of court be issued commanding said John E. Bunker, secretary of State aforesaid, to appear before the justice of said court and show cause if any he has why the prayer of this petitioner should not be granted.

This case is a most interesting one and many of the points of law are involved. Clarence E. Paul of Rockport who has held the office of register of deeds of Knox county for a long time, was a candidate for renomination in the Democratic primaries two years ago but was defeated by Edwin O. Heald of Rockland. Mr. Heald was nominated and elected but a short time before the first of January 1915, when he was to assume the duties of his office, he died and Mr. Paul, who held the office at the time, remained as register of deeds and still holds that office contending that no vacancy in the office has existed as Mr. Heald did not qualify.

Gov. Haines, just prior to the expiration of his term, appointed Mr. Grinnell, a Republican, as register of deeds for Knox county but the nomination was withdrawn and when Gov. Curtis came into office, he nominated John L. Donohue of Rockland, a Democrat to the office, but that nomination was withdrawn. In the meantime Mr. Paul has had charge of the office just the same as if he had been elected by the people and this spring he and Mr. Donohue who had been once named as register of deeds in the Democratic primaries, are both candidates while Mr. Grinnell filed his papers as a Republican candidate with no opposition.

Secretary Bunker refused to have the names of any candidates placed on the primary ballot for the office of register of deeds for Knox county. Hon. William R. Palfangall of Augusta, attorney general, rendered an opinion in which he stated that there is no vacancy in the office of register of deeds for that county at the present time nor will one occur unless, by death or resignation of the present incumbent, prior to Jan. 1, 1919. Hence there is no occasion for an election for such register during the present year.

The question, no matter what the decision of Justice Conish, may be, goes to the Law Court for final settlement.

Secretary Bunker of State made this statement to the Express-Advertiser correspondent after the papers had been served on him:

"The Revised Statutes provide for the election of registers of deeds commencing on the second Monday of September, 1882, and every four years thereafter, also that the person thus elected and giving the bonds required shall hold his office for four years from the first day of the next January and until another is chosen and until another is chosen and qualified."

"At the September election in 1914, Edwin O. Heald was elected register of deeds for Knox county and before he qualified as such on Dec. 23, 1914, he died. At his death Heald was not the register of deeds of Knox county but Clarence E. Paul was register of deeds having been elected to said office after the September election of 1910 and according to the wording of the statute, shall hold his office for four years from the first day of the following January and until another is chosen and qualified."

"Mr. Paul is still living. He has not resigned his office. There is no vacancy as contemplated by section 4 of chapter 11 of the Revised Statutes. Had Mr. Heald qualified as register of deeds of Knox county and lived until after Jan. 1, 1915, upon his death there would have been a vacancy and it would have been incumbent upon the governor to have filled the same by appointment and the appointee would have held office until the first day of January, 1917, and an election of a register of deeds in the September election of 1916 would have been required, thus making it necessary for the Secretary of State to have placed the names of candidates for that office upon the ballots for the primary election in June."

PLEASANT POINT

A. O. Spear of Warren was at A. F. Morse's, Wednesday.

James Greener has torn down the old store on his place at Stone's Point. The building was an old land mark, having been used as a store by the late James Stone more than 80 years ago.

Miss Frances Campbell has returned to New York where she will engage in a stock company for the summer.

Farnham Stone and family who have been living on Burnt Island for the past two years, have moved back to their home here. They many friends are glad to welcome them back.

W. J. Morse is about to build a new store near his home at Pleasant Point. Alvah Carl was in Thomaston Monday on business.

A. E. Carle and wife of Malden, Mass. were week-end guests of their son Alvah and daughter Eloise, who have recently purchased a farm here. Sunday they all entertained as guests, Mrs. Nancy Bushnell, Jerome Bushnell and Master Billie Manning, all of Thomaston.

Mr. A. F. Morse, who has been very ill, is now able to eat her neatly bors, who are always glad to see her. Nahum Robinson, who died at his home in North Cushing, May 2, was a young man of exemplary character, the only son of O. D. and Martha Robinson, upon whom his loss falls heavily, as he was very devoted to his mother. Nahum was a valued member of Acorn Grange, and at his funeral which took place at his home Friday there were many beautiful floral offerings. Four of the Grange members were pall bearers. Beside his father and mother he leaves to mourn his loss, two sisters who reside in Boston, and many other relatives and a host of friends. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family. His age was 37 years.

Resolutions of Respect

Whereas, It has been the will of the Divine Master to call from our midst Brother Nahum Robinson, he it is resolved: That in the death of Brother Robinson, Acorn Grange suffers an irreparable loss.

We realize that what has happened to Brother Robinson is the fate which awaits us each and all, so we bow to the Divine will.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days and that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in this their hour of affliction.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our departed brother, that they be placed upon our records, and a copy be sent to The Courier-Gazette for publication.

WHITE HOLLAND IS FAVORED

Breed of Turkeys That Do Not Wander Away From Home—Hens Nest In Any Convenient Place.

Until recently the Mammoth Bronze turkey was in a class by itself, and was known as the king of domestic birds, but by scientific breeding the White Holland variety has become a rival of the old favorite and promises to gain in popularity over the Bronze within a very few years, says an Illinois writer in Farmer's Review.

There was a time when I read advertisements which described the White Holland turkey as "the kind that stays at home." I could scarcely believe that it was in accordance with a turkey's nature, whatever breed they chanced to be to "stay at home." Personal experience has proved that the White Holland will not wander as do the Bronze and Bourbon Red, the only other varieties of the turkey family with which I am acquainted.

In the laying season White Holland hens are content to nest in any building about the place, in straw sheds or nearly shocks of corn and do not resent being disturbed.

When the poults are very young it is not necessary to keep the turkey hen penned up more than a week, for she will go only a few yards from the coop, as she seems to realize the helplessness of her flock. Later, as the turkeys grow larger and stronger, the mother hen picks their way slowly through an adjoining meadow or field for a few hours each day, always coming home early in the afternoon. At no time during the summer or fall do they go any distance from home.

Sprouted grains are another cheap food. This was sold a few years ago as a poultry "secret" of feed at 15 cents a bushel. Oats are generally used for this, although wheat, rye and other grains are as good.

The grain should be soaked for 24 hours, or even 36 hours, in warm water, when spread in shallow boxes and kept in a warm place. Keep moist by sprinkling two or three times a day with warm water. Feed when the sprouts are about two inches long.

The hens will eat grains and sprouts both, and by the process of sprouting the amount of feed is greatly increased without increasing the cost.

Sunflower seeds, if raised in the odd corners where nothing else will grow to advantage, really cost us nothing. Hang the heads up where the hens will peck at them, and they will scatter the seeds in the litter.

If these seeds are fed mixed with the other grains that are scattered in and they make a practice of coming back within a short time.

White Holland bear confinement well, and are therefore the ideal turkey for the breeder with limited space. The purebred specimen is a remarkably beautiful bird, being as large as the Bronze, and of snow-white plumage. The feathers, excepting those of wing and tail, are as soft as cotton and very abundant. Breeders who cull their flocks, dry pick the birds which are sold dressed, and use the feathers instead of those of geese and ducks.

Promised Not to Repeat.

There are more good stories to the square inch in Doctor Macnamara's book on "Schoolroom Humor" than in any other book of its kind, says an exchange. One section is devoted to unconsciously humorous letters from fathers and mothers excusing their boys' nonattendance at school. Perhaps the best of all is the following from a mother to the teacher: "Please sir, Jonnie was kept home today. I have had twins. It shan't occur again.—Yours truly—"

REDUCE EXPENSES IN THE POULTRY YARD

Self-Feeders for Dry Feed; Hopper for Oyster Shells and Watering Device.

(By L. M. BENNINGTON.) All kinds of grain, both whole and ground, are so high in price that it will pay us to study how to feed the hens as cheaply as possible and still secure good results.

Bran is a heavy expense, and the amount used can be greatly lessened by feeding out clover, or cowpea hay. These contain the same elements as wheat bran and are very palatable for the hens, when steamed.

Cut or break the hay into small pieces, pack into a tub or bucket and pour over it all the boiling water it will absorb, then cover closely and let stand thirty or forty minutes before feeding. In the winter when the hens cannot get green grass they relish this very much.

Sprouted grains are another cheap food. This was sold a few years ago as a poultry "secret" of feed at 15 cents a bushel. Oats are generally used for this, although wheat, rye and other grains are as good.

The grain should be soaked for 24 hours, or even 36 hours, in warm water, when spread in shallow boxes and kept in a warm place. Keep moist by sprinkling two or three times a day with warm water. Feed when the sprouts are about two inches long.

The hens will eat grains and sprouts both, and by the process of sprouting the amount of feed is greatly increased without increasing the cost.

Sunflower seeds, if raised in the odd corners where nothing else will grow to advantage, really cost us nothing. Hang the heads up where the hens will peck at them, and they will scatter the seeds in the litter.

If these seeds are fed mixed with the other grains that are scattered in the litter, or as a change from the others, it will of course not be necessary to feed so much of the expensive grains.

The small potatoes and the potato parings and trimmings from other vegetables used in the house can be boiled, salted and peppered, as for the table, and a little bran and cornmeal mixed with them, just enough to take up the surplus moisture, so that the mixture will not be sloppy. This makes a good, and also a very inexpensive mash feed. With it may be mixed the meat scraps.

Beef bones and scraps should be chopped through a bone cutter, or be chipped up by hand into small pieces, before giving to the hens.

Skim milk costs really nothing on the farms, and if the hens have all of it they will drink, they will not eat so much other food.

If these cheap feeds are handled right, it will leave only the last feed at night to be of the high-priced grains, and if well fed during the day on these other things, they will not eat so much of it then.

They should have a good feed of grain, mostly corn for their supper, in order to keep them healthy and supply bodily heat during the cold weather.

By following these suggestions, the hens can be almost entirely kept on the waste products of the farm, and what is received for the eggs will be nearly all profit.

If properly housed and given plenty of warm water to drink, they will lay well on this bill of fare, and we can rejoice over a good supply of eggs when winter is here and the price goes soaring.

The Village Blacksmith

Everybody knows him, and everybody likes him. He's a fine fellow, with a hard hand, a big arm and a mighty chest. It acts very properly when he tells you that he isn't much good when his stomach goes back on him.

So long as he can eat well, he can work hard and long, but when his stomach is sick he doesn't feel like standing at his anvil. Many strong men have found "L. F." Atwood's Medicine a great help in keeping the stomach well. It acts very promptly on the digestive organs, the liver and bowels, and keeps them regular and healthy. When you feel out of sorts, with little appetite, or suffer from a sick headache, this reliable remedy will soon make you feel better.

FREE—On receipt of a yellow outside wrapper with your opinion of the medicine, we will send one of our Needle Books with a good assortment of high grade needles, useful in every family.

Every Cold Should Be Considered Serious

So say the best medical authorities. Unless promptly checked, often they lead to chronic bronchial and pulmonary troubles which may prove fatal.

If your cough or cold has not responded to treatment—and remember, medicine should not be solely relied on—timely use of Eckman's Alternative may give you relief.

For more than twenty years it has been benefiting sufferers from these disorders. It is especially indicated where the system demands time, for it contains calcium chloride so combined as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Safe to try—because it contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs of any sort whatsoever.

VALUABLE FEED FOR LAYERS

Missouri Agricultural College Expert Recommends Giving Hens Sour Milk in Their Rations.

(By H. L. KEMPSTER, Professor of Poultry Husbandry of the Missouri College of Agriculture.) Milk or meat in the ration may make all the difference between profit and loss. We know from our tests at the experiment station and from the experience of poultry men everywhere. We got only 945 eggs from a pen of hens that ate no animal food, while another pen of hens, no better in any way but fed sour milk, laid 1,783. Those fed beef scrap laid 1,802 eggs.

A Good Sour Milk Ration.

Corn 4 parts.
Wheat, 2 parts.
Bran middlings, 1 part.
Cornmeal, 1 part.
Sour milk separately.
Give 100 hens 2½ gallons of milk and from 19 to 25 pounds of other food a day.

While this is a higher record than either of the others, the sour milk is so much cheaper and easier to get on most farms.

At 20 cents a dozen, the eggs from the hens fed sour milk brought $29.71 and those from the hens fed beef scrap, $30.03. The difference wouldn't begin to pay for the extra cost and trouble of beef scrap.

The big thing to remember is that the hens fed no animal food brought little more than half as much egg money. Theory and experience both say "Feed the laying hen sour milk as part of her ration."

SHIP EGGS LONG DISTANCES

Good Results Can Be Secured by Using Excelsior for Packing—Jolting Causes Trouble.

If hatching eggs are carefully packed in a basket with a good cushion of excelsior in the bottom, they will carry great distances and give good results. It must not be expected, however, that they will give as large a percentage of hatch as might be the case nearer home.

It is the jolting eggs are apt to get by transportation by rail, that is likely to weaken a strong germ or kill a weak one. For that reason they should be well packed in excelsior. Excelsior is to be preferred to any other material, as it is of a springy nature; and baskets are better than boxes, for the reason that being more convenient to handle, railroad employees are naturally more careful with them.

Shipping Live Poultry.

When shipping live poultry to market, be sure it is not crowded in the coops, for stock that suffers en route will lose considerable weight.

A real Guarantee

To be more than a mere "scrap of paper," a guarantee must be absolute—and backed by a concern able and willing to make it good.

The General's guarantee is not only absolute; it is backed by a business operating the world's largest roofing mills, and making one-third of all the roll roofing made in America. That's the guarantee behind

Certain-teed Roofing

The guarantee is for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply (1, 2 or 3). There is no evasion about it—no attempt to substitute a high-sounding something "just as good." There is no substitute for a real guarantee. You get an absolute guarantee on CERTAIN-TEED because the General knows that no better roofing can be made. Its raw materials and method of manufacture are both certified by the General's board of graduate chemists, and he knows he's taking no chance in guaranteeing them to you. That's what "CERTAIN-TEED" means—certified and guaranteed. Experience has proven that the guarantee is conservative, and that CERTAIN-TEED will outlast the period of guarantee.

The roofing felt, as it comes bone dry from the rollers, is given a thorough saturation of a special blend of soft asphalt, the formula of the General's board of expert chemists. It is then given a harder coating of another blend of asphalt. This keeps the inner saturation soft, and prevents the drying-out process so destructive to ordinary roofing. Roofing is impervious to the elements only so long as the asphalt saturation lasts. CERTAIN-TEED retains its soft saturation, and is in good condition for years after the harder, drier kinds have become useless.

CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls; also in slate-covered shingles. There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roofs, from the largest sky-scraper to the smallest residence or out-building.

CERTAIN-TEED is sold by responsible dealers all over the world, at reasonable prices. Investigate it before you decide on any type of roof.

GOSSIP OF NEW YORK

Tapping the Wires Startles Financiers of Metropolis—Hattie Green Gets On Front Pages Again—Big Increases in the Country's Pay Rolls.

New York, May 15.—"Listening on the wire," in order to obtain information regarding the collection of funds for charities, has affected the volume of telephone business in the Wall Street District. The "tapping" of the telephone wires, upon authority granted by Mayor Mitchell, in order that the police might be free to listen-in whenever they wished, has affected the methods of the big financial houses, with the result that information, worth millions to the right persons, is not passing as freely over the telephone wires as in the days when the senders were more confident that the danger of their secret leaking was negligible. No one has any objection to the police supervision of charities telephone messages, since the purpose is to safeguard genuine charity and honest relief work. However, Wall Street has adopted a plan whereby messengers will do a lot of the work that formerly was conducted over the wire. "Don't phone—send a man," is the method frequently adopted in handling the most important business of the day.

In the course of city-building a large number of huts, built at the time of the Revolutionary War for the purpose of housing American soldiers, were buried eight or ten feet underground. Now there is considerable interest in the upper end of Manhattan because these buildings have been recovered. They are in a locality that has recently been turned over to the city of New York. The buildings and huts will be restored as nearly as possible, to preserve their historical significance. The huts originally stood in three rows, and were erected and tenanted by the Continental Army under General William Heath, and after the American reverse at the battle of Fort Mifflin, by the British and Hessians. The Colonial and Dutch bricks used in their construction were in many instances carried away by the Hessians. In the buildings that have been unearthed many English and Hessian coats have been found. Buttons, belts and buckles, left by English, Hessians and Highland Scotch soldiers, have been found, indicating that the British had frequently changed the position at that point during the winter of 1776-7. In one of the huts a big brick fireplace about eight feet high and built in proportion has been found, and it is so well preserved that it is in condition to permit of its use after 140 years of burial.

Announcement was made a few days ago that a voluntary committee had raised a fund of over $150,000 for "The Felix Adler Scholarship Endowment." The amount was subscribed without any public notice having been given—and following publication of the news item there were such substantial additions to the original sum that it is now expected that the fund will reach between $250,000 and $300,000. The fund will be completed in time for a formal presentation to Dr. Adler at one of the occasions during the celebration of the 40th anniversary of the movement, which began May 14. There are more than 750 students in the Ethical Culture School in New York, and fully one-half of the fellowships for these students are maintained in the school year after year by private subscriptions. The new scholarship endowment will make these scholarships slightly in excess of a monthly stipend of the Ethical Culture Movement, and he has been its leader for 40 years. As a feature of the celebration, which is to include the divisions of the Society from all parts of the country, it is the desire of the members of the Society to pay personal tribute to the great work done by their leader. It was realized, however, that no personal gift would be made that would be acceptable to Dr. Adler, and therefore the scholarship endowment was devised, in the belief that it would best perpetuate Dr. Adler's work.

One of the most unique characters in the country Mrs. Hattie Green, whom copywriters like to picture as one of the richest women in the world, and also as one of the most eccentric. Yards of copy have been written about the very plain little apartment which Mrs. Green occupies, and her habit of hopping aboard a street car instead of riding in a limousine, has never failed to shock the sensibilities of people who appear to think that the very rich people should not do plain things like that. Mrs. Green is in her 80th year, but notwithstanding her age she gives daily personal supervision to her business affairs. Recently she was slightly indisposed, and the newspaper men seized upon the item of news to make it appear that she had suffered a paralytic stroke. The brave old woman denies that she is tottering in her steps, and she also denies some of the many other yarns that are frequently published about her eccentricities. As a matter of fact she is living in a very comfortable way all the time, and she also has a good deal of money, which she has accumulated by her business-building power. Like most other scions of homes of wealth, Mrs. Green has no such habits of economy as most of the people who have brought distinction to their names.

An investigation of increases in pay, affecting 700,000 men, employed by the big industries of the country shows slightly less than a monthly increase in the pay roll amounting to $5,398,872. The amount of increases yearly aggregate $64,426,464. The industries covered by the investigation include work on steel, the automobile industry, mining, packers, tailors, teamsters, brewers, electrical railways, rubber workers, cotton operatives, etc. The figures as compiled cover the operations of 31 of the largest industries in the United States.

She Told Her Neighbor

"I told a neighbor whose very young child had croup about Foley's Honey and Tar," writes Mrs. Redkamp, 2504 Herman street, Covington, Ky. "She thought that the child's cough, croup and whooping cough. Just as good for old as it is for young folks."

ROSALIND JUNIOR

By ELSA FREELAND.

Fraser stood it just as long as he could, as long as any normal person could with any humanitarian instincts whatsoever. Then he grabbed his hat and started out grimly to find the guardian of the child.

He had tried to concentrate on his work for the past hour. His room was at the rear of the first floor, the back parlor of an old-fashioned brownstone residence. Outside, the view took in rows of back yards, fences, clothes lines, and numerous fire escapes.

It was from one of the latter, three stories up, that the cries emanated—cries, nay, shrieks of protest. Fraser flung up one of his windows and looked on hands planted on the sill, his eyes searching the adjacent firmament for the source of the yell. All he could see was an umbrella placed on a fire escape at the aforesaid elevation, and he could dimly discern beneath the umbrella a shape akin to that of a papoose.

Finally, to cap the climax, while he gazed a young woman came to the window at the fire escape, patted the umbrella and went away again. Therefore Fraser decided it was distinctly up to him to see that the peace of the neighborhood was kept undisturbed and one mother warned that thinking people would not stand such tactics.

He found the vestibule of the apartment house which owned that particular fire escape. He had located it with mathematical exactitude and pressed the right button. The door opened at his ring. Yes, it was the same young woman, too, only she appeared younger some way.

"How do you do?" began Fraser somewhat vaguely for a man with a mission in life. "The baby is—er—crying."

"She's teething."

"It is a ridiculous superstition to say such a thing. Babies, healthy, normal babies, never object to teething. My dear madam, I have listened to that sound for the past hour—"

"I'm so sorry," she interrupted feelingly and almost remorsefully. "I was awfully busy and, you see, Elizabeth—that's my sister—told me she must be left out in the fresh air and not to mind if she cried because normal children always cry a little bit, and it's good for them. It exercises their lungs."

"Do you mind if I come in just for a moment," said Fraser eagerly. "I assure you I'm not a book agent, but I am very, very much interested in the care and feeding and rearing of children. In fact, I've got an order to write a series of articles for a magazine on the subject—"

"Isn't that lovely?" Her face fairly glowed with quick appreciation. "Do, please, come in. Wait a minute while I get the baby. She is rather whooping it up a bit, isn't she?"

Fraser took a seat on theavenport in the front room and waited. It really seemed to be a very nice apartment and furnished in very good taste. He felt his wave of indignation subsiding. By the time the young woman had returned with the baby he even looked at it appreciatively.

"Isn't she a darling?" She's really got so much individuality, you know, that she resents being alone out there. I don't blame her a bit. Blessed angel! Auntie's love lamb, disturbing all the neighborhood with her crying."

"What's her name?" asked Fraser. "Rosaland—the same as mine."

Rosalind, junior, the gentleman from Avon who wrote once upon a time of a lady who wrote Rosalind, also said a sweet low voice is an excellent thing in woman. I have made quite a study of child culture. You know, I believe absolutely in promoting individualism in children."

"But you don't like them on fire escapes."

He looked at her with appreciation, realizing that she did have a sense of humor and had rather got him there. "Do, please, come in. Wait a minute while I get the baby. She is rather whooping it up a bit, isn't she?"

HOUSEWIFE'S HELPS.
 Put cheese that is wanted to keep in a stone jar and cover thickly with salt; it will not mold or become dry with this treatment.

When the metal pit comes off from shoe string, wind the end firmly with waxed thread, then sew it in, and you will have as good a tip as ever.

For successful pie making use old tin plates when baking custard, pumpkin or one-crust pie. If a new tin is bought, brown it well in the oven before using it. A custard pie must be baked crisp and brown on the bottom to be palatable and thick, heavy pans make a soggy crust.

Polish mirrors with alcohol, then rub with whiting and polish. The finish will be much superior to any other treatment. This is good for windows.

Brush silk with a piece of velvet or velveteen. Never use a brush on silk.

A worn-out face, waist may be made into a pretty little afternoon apron, by carefully cutting out the front, if there are embroidered sleeves, pockets may be made of them.

To Cure Car Sickness—There are any number of remedies, like the eating of raisins, dry crackers, etc., but here comes one called infallible, given by a sleeping car porter. Eat several slices of raw potato, plentifully sprinkled with salt. Salted crackers would probably have the same result and be more digestible.

When cleaning any garment or gloves, mix gasoline with flour; rub this paste well into the soiled spots and brush well after the gasoline is evaporated. Peroxide will take out fruit stains, even of long standing.

One application put on when they are on the line is usually sufficient. This need not be washed out as it does not injure the fabric.

Velvet covers to coat hangers are much better than silk as the garment does not slip off so easily.

A small piece of butter dropped into the boiling sirup before it is added to the egg white insures a creamy frosting. A teaspoonful of cream will answer the same purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert K. Gardner, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Gardner, left yesterday for Portland, where they are to remain.

Mrs. William H. Glover is convalescing from a severe attack of tonsillitis.

Miss S. Hensley is home from Portland for a few weeks on business for the corporation by which he is employed.

Miss George Brainerd left yesterday morning for Boston where she will visit relatives and friends.

Yesterday marked the 7th birthday of Mrs. A. B. Swetland. She was invited to her bed by illness, but the anniversary was brightened through the arrival of plants, souvenir cards and various other remembrances.

Miss Florence Haley of Portland has been spending a few days with Rockland friends.

Mrs. Augusta Wright has opened one of the Pleasant Beach cottages for the summer.

Mrs. G. F. Wood has returned from a business visit with Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Forest Smith in Amherst, Mass., and is occupying her Masonic room here.

Mrs. J. F. Cooper arrived Friday morning from Washington, D. C., accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth P. Lord and Joseph P. Lord, Jr., who will spend the summer here.

Miss N. Y. Sunday Telegram: Mr. and Mrs. William Ledy of Clinton gave a surprise party to Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh C. Nash, who have just returned from Rockland, Maine. There was music, cards and a good supper. Mrs. Bertrand gave several selections and there was a party by Miss McKee, Mr. McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Nash, Mrs. Bertrand and Mr. Nash.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Copeland are home from Massachusetts where he has been spending the last five months. Mr. Copeland and family were the guests of P. W. Woodland in Rockport Sunday.

Mrs. J. S. Ranlett, Jr., entertained St. Rose Society at "Camp Antlers" Sunday. The members enjoyed their visit, especially Margaret, who dotes on meat balls, and Marie, whose hobby is sewing wood. May 24 the Society holds a dance in Odd Fellows hall with Marion's music, and their Protestant friends are invited to attend.

Banner News: Ex-Gov. William T. Cobb and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Thorndike of Rockland were in Bangor on Sunday by automobile, taking dinner at the Bangor House, as did another Rockland party composed of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Miss Gertrude Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens.

CUSOLITO-CARUSO
St. Bernard's church was the scene of a very pretty and impressive Italian wedding this morning when Miss Mary Caruso was united in marriage with Bartolo Cusolito of Camden. Rev. Fr. Flynn officiated. Thomas Anastasi was crossman and Miss Serafina Opili was bridesmaid. The couple left on the morning train for Portland, where they will spend a few days before going to Somerville, Mass., where they are to meet the bridegroom's parents, now on their way to this country from Paris. A great reception will be given in honor of the latter. Mr. and Mrs. Cusolito will reside in Camden, where the former is manager of the Camden Fruit Co's store. The bride is a sister of Charles Caruso of this city, and a very attractive young woman.

ROCKLAND THEATRE
Tonight will be the third performance of this grand Paramount photoplay "The Moment Before," with Pauline Frederick, the screen favorite, in the title role. She portrays two roles, a person in youth and age. Miss Frederick is supported by a carefully selected cast. And the Ray Cartoon comedy. With other interesting features.

Coming Wednesday and Thursday the most beautiful love romance ever written, "One Day," scored to Elton Glyn's famous story "Three Weeks." Opening with the coronation of Paul L., the infant King of Veseria, through a series of exciting scenes, the pictures move ahead several years to an attempt on the young sovereign's life, made by Stefan, a henchman of Pavlovich, the Regent, who is plotting to make way for his own crowning.

Through every exciting portrayal of 20 years in extravagant and intemperate living, we find Pavlovich facing a rebellious people and a bankrupt country. To save her father's throne, Opal, his beautiful daughter, consents to sacrifice herself in marriage to the Prince of Argonne, her elder by many years, and a man with no enviable reputation. The agreement provides that she first be permitted 30 days' vacation in a spot known only to herself and maid. Also the interesting Paramount South American series. With other big features.

Coming Friday and Saturday the grand Palms-Paramount photoplay "David Garrick," with Dustin Farnum in the title role. Also the 17th story of "Graft." Friday night is coupon night.

Camden Still Victorious

But Rockland High Put Up Good Argument Saturday.
—Thomaston the Other Winner.—The Alderbrush League Opens Fifth Season Next Friday.

Camden and Thomaston were the victors in Saturday's games of the Knox-Waldo League, leaving no reasonable doubt that the championship again lies between those teams. The laboring or is on Thomaston, but it should be remembered that Camden has yet to play on the Thomaston grounds, and any team that beats Thomaston in its own ballpark has got to go some. Both teams still have that Vinalhaven journey to make, and they may meet the same sad fate that overtook Rockland. Smooth water or rough water may determine the championship. Belfast appears to be hopelessly booked for the cellar championship, and it is up to Rockland to hold third position. The standing:

| | Won | Lost | P.C. |
|------------|-----|------|-------|
| Camden | 4 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Thomaston | 3 | 1 | .750 |
| Rockland | 1 | 2 | .333 |
| Vinalhaven | 1 | 2 | .333 |
| Belfast | 0 | 4 | .000 |

Camden & Rockland 2
For eight innings it was as nice a school game as one would ask to see. The score was 2 to 2, and both pitchers were going fine, with Doherty having a shade the better of the argument. The break came in the 9th inning and from Rockland's standpoint was so complete and demoralizing that the spectators began to leave the grounds. That Rockland subsequently had the bases full with nobody out is now a cheerful reflection in view of the fact that not a single run resulted. Rockland had much better chances to win than in that last half inning. Opportunity knocked thrice at our door, and found "nobody at home." We had, in this game, much pluck, some skill, but a woeful lack of rudimentary knowledge in baserunning—the same reef on which every Rockland High School team has been wrecked in the past five years.

The Camden team came down in all its glory, with a special car, a brass band, and a score of automobile parties to offer encouragement. The visitors were very sanguine of a victory, and the developments of the first inning were merely in the nature of corroborative evidence. Morin, who is neither a Ty Cobb nor a Tris Speaker at the bat, surprised the Camden contingent by leading off with a clean single. He stole second, and scored on Perry's misplay. McCobb's single sent Dahlgren home, but the Camden cleanup man got caught off second.

body was woefully at fault in these two instances, but for which Rockland might have won the game.

Camden's four scores in the 9th inning, following seven large round, goose-eggs, were the result of Beale's double, a base on balls, a patching, singles by Dahlgren and Chapin, and Macree's sacrifice fly. Beale's double was over right field fence, and raised him very high in the estimation of the delighted Camden fans.

Doherty looked in the first inning as though he would be "easy money" for the visitors, but between that and the 9th inning, they made but two hits off him. Anderson tightened after the 5th inning, but was having his troubles in the 9th when that infield fly put the Rockland craft on the rocks. The Camden boy is a cool, heady worker.

McCobb for Camden and Oney for Rockland were the stars of the game. The score:

|--------------|----|---|----|----|----|----|---|
| Morin, ss | 4 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 2 | 4 | 0 |

Thomaston 8, Belfast 3
Thomaston High made enough runs in the fifth inning to defeat the visitors at Thomaston, Saturday, and there was no time that the contest was even moderately interesting. Merrifield held Belfast to five hits. The home team did not make an abundance of hits but four of them were doubles and Belfast's error column tells the rest of the story. The summary:
Thomaston 1 2 5 0 0 0 0 0 x-8
Belfast 0 0 0 1 0 2 0 0-3
Base hits, Thomaston 7, Belfast 5. Errors, Thomaston 5, Belfast 9. Batteries, Merrifield and C. Sawyer; Parker and Hatch.

Next Saturday's games find Rockland at Belfast and Thomaston at Vinalhaven, Camden having an open date. The schedule unfortunately provides for no game on the mainland, in Knox county, whereas there were two games within four miles of each other last Saturday. Perhaps it could not have been otherwise arranged.

The opening game in the Alderbrush League, at Oakland Park, will be played next Friday afternoon, and all of the "regulars" are expected to be on hand, without further invitation or urging. Take the car leaving the waiting station at 1:30.

George M. Simmons has sold Cadillac cars to Mrs. Georgia Berry and William S. White of this city, and to H. N. Mason of Belfast, who bought the car on his way home from Florida. Mr. Simmons has sold Dori cars to H. Maurier of Camden, Dr. C. F. French and Agent Leonard of the Metropolitan Insurance Co.
